IN MEMORIAM.

At a meeting of the Oregon City Bar, on Monday, the following was had in respect to the memory of the late Chas E Warren

Resolved That the sudden death of Chas E Warren Esq our late youthful associate is a public loss, and to each of us a cause of deep personal grief His rapidly increasing list of clients bore deserved testimony to his professional growth and faithfulness and the devotion of friends far and wide in his last painful illness testified their appreciation of his worth as a man Those of us who were most constantly associated with him in the practice of the law were most ready to testify of the brilliant promise of his future.

Resolved That this testimonial of our regard for our deceased associate and friend be presented to the County Court of Clackamas county to meet this morning with the request that the same be spread upon the records of the Court

Resolved That the Court be requested to cause a duly certified copy of these proceedings to be transmitted to the widow and to the father of our deceased friend and associate, in token of our sympathy with them in their sad bereavement

In connection with the above, the Hon W T White County Judge offered the following which was read and by request of the Bar ordered spread upon the record

GENTLEMEN Having always entertained the highest regard for Mr Charles E Warren as a lawyer of rare ability for one so young in the practice of his profession, and also as a man of undoubted integrity and honesty and one who had earned the warm attachment and respect of all who knew him I can well appreciate your object in meeting together in open court to pay the last tribute of respect to him as a brother attorney in this court the place of his home And I fully sympathize not only with those who were associated with him at the Bar in their sorrow but also with his bereaved family, and father mother, brothers and sisters, in their sore affliction in the loss of him who by his sudden death has cast a gloom of sorrow and mourning His death is felt to be a public loss, and his memory will long be cherished by all who knew him In memory of the deceased the Court will stand adjourned until to morrow morning at 9 o clock W T WHITE, County Judge

THE TEMPERANCE CRUSADE IN KANSAS —FORT SCOTT (Kan) March 20 —The first earnest work of the temperance crusade was inaugurated here to night by a visit of about a dozen ladies to the saloon of Deacon Maynard where a free lunch was advertised from 10 to 12 o clock The ladies took with them 21 ragged and hungry little ones—children of drunken parents to give them the benefit of the lunch The proprietor of the saloon received the ladies courteously, and the lunch was spread and the children pitched in doing it ample justice A large crowd of spectators filled the saloon They were generally respectable in demeanor though there was some boisterous demonstrations and blasphemous talk and a constant demand was made on the bar for drinks After the children were well filled the ladies knelt and long earnest and fervent prayer was offered by the leader of the band After prayer the ladies sent the children out the door of the saloon and then filed through the crowd out of the front entrance The Deacon did the honors of the occasion graciously and invited the ladies to call again, and bring the children when they got hungry The ladies were all of the highest respectability

SENATOR JONES ON INFLATION.

WASHINGTON April [illegible]—[illegible] the consideration of the bill to provide for the redemption of [illegible] States notes and for free banking [illegible] The question was on the amendment of Mr [illegible] providing for free banking [illegible] the States [illegible] the width and [illegible] the amount now outstanding [illegible] State of Maine

Mr Davis [illegible] an amendment the circulation of [illegible] instead of Maine He said [illegible] circulation which he had made the [illegible] circulation of Mr [illegible] does intending it was all the amount $25,000,000 and according to his it would be about $40,000,000 [illegible] of New York [illegible] proposed by the [illegible] it would be $121,000,000

[illegible]

Mr Sargent said it was proper to enter a protest as to the action of the inflationists They were in the majority [illegible] one of their number who was absent was [illegible] while [illegible] the two Massachusetts Senators one was dead and the other was absent and unpaired

During the further discussion Mr Davis said that he had obtained his figures yesterday from the Controller of Currency

Mr Conkling understood that the revision of the figures this morning showed that on the basis of Pennsylvania about ten millions more would be required than on the basis of New York

The amendment of Mr Davis was then rejected as follows—ayes 27 noes 26

MR JONES OF NEVADA.

Spoke of the fact that gold and silver were the currency of the Pacific States and asked why it was that these States with less relative value in the way of products were able to keep in their own borders enough coin to meet the wants of trade

Mr Morton said that it was a blunder of Nevada and California that they did not accept greenbacks as a circulating medium and this refusal on their part had retarded their prosperity He asked Mr Jones how the Government would have put down the rebellion if other States had done as the Pacific States had done and refused to take paper money of the Government

HOW MR JONES WOULD HAVE PUT DOWN THE REBELLION

Mr Jones said the Government would in that event have put down the rebellion at $1,000,000,000 less expense [One of [illegible] so from Senators and applause in the gallery] Mr Jones would have wrung the last dollar in the way of taxation and conscripted the last man to put down rebellion When all this had been done, and not before then would he have concluded to issue irredeemable currency Instead of this the Government began issuing paper money and everything immediately went up and the Government and the people had to pay in proportion The people of Nevada were honest they

WOULD NOT FLUNDER THEIR CREDITORS,

Even at the invitation of the Government When they agreed to pay their creditors in money they did not offer them paper rags What was the universal experience of paper money? What value did it cause to rise? It raised the prices of stocks fancy and other wise but the very last thing that it did raise was the products of agriculture Mr Jones further maintained that farmers and the laboring classes were the only men who were not benefited by inflation It was the banks and bankers and the gamblers that profited by it

Morton asked if there was not as much gambling in Nevada and California as in any other States?

Jones said he had never heard of stock gambling there as carried on in the Eastern States The people bought a thing when they thought it was valuable and sold it when they thought it was not valuable but the gamblers of the Pacific coast never come to Congress and asked that the currency be inflated to help them [Laughter and cheers] Jones continuing appealed to the Senate to pause and not take action which would

CERTAINLY BRING DISASTER UPON THE COUNTRY

He maintained that there is abundance of paper money to meet all the wants of business Paper money was not and never could be made a standard of value Gold was the standard because it meant something The Government in issuing more paper money would dishonor itself because it comes between the debtor and creditor He did not think it would be just to hasten specie resumption, but he thought it might be fixed for July 1877 when the people would be ready to resume and the Government would have no trouble about it Referring to

A COMPLAINT FROM THE SOUTH

Of a lack of currency he said one great trouble in that section is that too many people want to hire others and too few want to work themselves A man wanted to own 100,000 acres of land sit down and hire some one to work his land But he had no money and wanted the Government to print some more paper Suppose the Government did print it, how was he to get it? He could get it now if he would sell some of his land for what it was really worth and not hold it at inflated prices He would now say to the farmers and planters South everything they used to have goes to pay inflated prices What they produced

WAS SOLD [illegible]

And they did not want any more paper What the country wanted, and what the South wanted, and we all wanted was a sound financial system Then with labor with industry and thrift every man would and that he would have plenty of money [illegible]

THE CAUSE OF SUMNER'S DEATH

[illegible]

[illegible] It is [illegible] Senator Sumner [illegible] Burlingame [illegible] him long [illegible] the [illegible] House connected with that affair The attack was made on the [illegible] May 1856 The feeling [illegible] by the event was intense and violent indignation meetings were held throughout the North. It was nearly a month thereafter when it was found that Mr Sumner's injuries necessitated his retirement from the Senate that Anson Burlingame delivered his celebrated speech in the House in which he denounced the assailant and [illegible] proclaimed his [illegible] readiness to answer for his words in any manner or in any place that his enemies might elect Mr Burlingame's strong words and subsequent acceptance of a challenge, though heartily applauded in many parts of the country did not meet the approval of his constituents in Massachusetts who [illegible] suitable to any recognition of the code even under the extraordinary provocation It is not uninteresting at this time to reproduce the words of Mr Burlingame for which he was called to account He alluded to the case at the outset by calling the speech of Mr Sumner, and said

I need not speak of the classic purity of its language nor of the nobility of its sentiments It was heard by many it has been read by millions It was made in the face of the whole Senate It continued through the greater portion of two days and yet during that time the speaker was not once called to order This fact is conclusive as to the personal and parliamentary decorum of the speech But he was there to denounce tyranny and crime and he did it He was there to speak for the rights of an empire and he did it bravely and grandly So much for the occasion of the speech A word and I will be pardoned about the speaker himself He is my friend and for many and many a year I have looked up to him for guidance He sat at the feet of Channing and drank in the sentiments of that noble soul He bathed in the learning of the great jurist Story and the hand of Jackson with its honors and offices sought him out It [illegible] The people of Massachusetts [illegible] him full [illegible] to the beauty of his public and private [illegible] Such is Charles Sumner On the 22d of May when the Senate and the House had clothed themselves in mourning for a brother fallen the Senator from Massachusetts sat in the silence of the Senate Chamber when a member of this House who had taken an oath to sustain the Constitution stole into the Senate—that place which had hitherto been held sacred against violence and smote him [illegible] Cain smote his brother

Mr Keitt—That is false

Mr Burlingame—I will not bandy epithets with the gentleman I am responsible for my own language Doubtless he is responsible for his

Mr Keitt—I am

Mr Burlingame—I shall stand by mine One blow was enough but it did not satiate the wrath of that spirit which had pursued him through two days Again and again the laden blows fell until he was torn away from his victim and the Senator from Massachusetts fell in the arms of his friends and his blood ran down the Senate floor The act was brief and my comments shall be brief also I denounce it in the name of the Constitution it violated I denounce it in the name of the sovereignty of Massachusetts which was stricken down by the blow I denounce it in the name of humanity I denounce it in the name of civilization which it outraged I denounce it in the name of that fair play which bullies and prize fighters respect Sir if freedom of speech is not to remain with us, what is this Government worth If we are to be called to account by some gallant nephew of some gallant uncle when we utter something that does not suit their sensitive natures we [illegible] to know it The House will bear witness that we have not violated nor trespassed on its rules but if we are pushed too far there are men from the old Commonwealth of Massachusetts who will not shrink from a defense of freedom of speech and the honored State they represent, on any field where they may be assailed

The outspoken words which were intended and received as a notification by Mr Burlingame that he should hold himself ready to answer for them with his life if necessary were followed by a challenge from the cowardly assailant of Mr Sumner Brooks Mr Burlingame promptly accepted the challenge and named a place in Canada for the meeting Meantime it had transpired that the young member from Massachusetts was an excellent shot and that the chances were a good deal against Mr Brooks ever returning to Washington if he went to the place assigned He therefore declared that he was afraid to pass through the free States on his way to Canada as he would run the risk of being mobbed This flimsy excuse was so ridiculed that poor Brooks never recovered from its effects, and though he was re-elected he cut but a sorry figure afterward and the disgrace into which he had fallen even in the eyes of his friends undoubtedly had an influence in hastening his death which occurred not long subsequently

All the parties to this event of tragic interest—Senator Butler of South Carolina in whose behalf the assault was made Brooks, Burlingame Sumner—are now dead the victim of the murderous assault being the last to surrender to the remorseless enemy

SCENE IN A BOMBAY COURT —In one of the Bombay courts a Hindoo woman was recently charged before Mr Dosabhoy Framjee the Magistrate, with insulting the mother of her betrothed She was of the b[illegible] caste and very prepossessing in appearance The evidence of the complainant having been taken the intended husband of the defendant was called into the witness box and he [illegible] his mother's evidence He added that when he went to the residence of his mother the defendant who was betrothed to him, [illegible] his [illegible] The Magistrate Are [illegible] married in your caste Witness—Yes Sir but this woman was divorced by her former husband and I am betrothed to her Such marriages are allowed in our caste Magistrate Well as you are only betrothed are you going to marry this woman after the short experience you have had of her Witness She must have been divorced by her former husband for some such conduct Magistrate —Well then are you going to take her Witness —What am I to do I have paid her sixty five rupees If she returns to me the amount I will not marry her and if she does not return the money then I will marry her Magistrate—Then won't she be revenged upon Witness—I am sure she will make me miserable Magistrate —Then don't marry her Witness— What about my rupees Will you kindly order them to be returned to me? Magistrate It is not in my power Witness Then I will marry her Magistrate— You may please yourself but I am afraid you will have to come here often Witness—No Sir I will take her to my native country and place her before the Panchayet who will chastise her with shoes and that will cure her of her temper The defendant was adjudged guilty and fined five rupees

IN WASHINGTON —The Philadelphia Press says of Parson Brownlow He is taken to his seat in the Senate at [illegible] and back to his solitary home at [illegible] There is no one in the tall pale dark haired man except his eye which grows restless when anything in the debate excites him He never speaks nor moves nor smiles, nor calls a page nor talks to a neighbor He is afflicted with a terrible palsy which makes him quiver and tremble continually but the old man means to die with his harness on and sits there by the door on the left of the President's seat [illegible] his time

THE SANBORN CONTRACT—WHAT IS IT AND HOW WAS IT GOT UP?

For some time past the attention of the public has been very often and in very many ways attracted to a particular swindle designated by the name of the Sanborn contract. The dispatches have been full of it, correspondents have enlarged upon it, and it has furnished the staple for editorial denunciation to an unlimited amount. And yet there are many who have no specific knowledge of its details or of the circumstances attending its origin and execution. Among all the accounts that have been given to the world through the Eastern press, the most succinct and at the same time the most thorough is in the Nation, which places all the chief features of the case in the clearest light before the reader, supplementing them with those pungent comments for which it is famous.

The facts are: On the 9th of February, 1872, the Committee on Appropriations reported to the Senate an amendment to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill—an amendment authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to employ persons not exceeding three in number, "to assist the proper officers, in discovering and collecting any moneys wrongfully withheld from the Government by any person or corporation, on such terms and conditions as he shall deem best for the interests of the United States;" but the compensation for such service to be paid wholly out of the moneys collected under such contract. The amendment went through the Senate without debate and almost without challenge, no one taking any notice of it excepting Mr Scott of Pennsylvania, who merely asked the chairman of the committee, Mr Cole, to "explain" it. Mr Cole's explanation made it about as clear as mud and Mr Scott seemed quite satisfied with it. So the debate was ended and the amendment was voted.

In the House it did not fare quite so well. Several members thought they saw something suspicious in it. Mr Garfield, of the House Committee, reported the bill back with the amendment stricken out, and the House agreed with its committee. The Senate refused to concur and a conference committee got hold of it. Persons who have jobs to work through Congress, which are likely to be detected and defeated if left to stand on their own merits, generally endeavor to attach them to some one of the principal appropriation bills, and then, if it be found impossible to get them through by ordinary process, the whole appropriation can be suspended in conference committee till the session is about to close, when the urgent necessity for the appropriations will prove a sufficient spur to put the bills through, jobs and all. Under the operation of this favorite device of legislative scoundrelism, this amendment, without material alteration, finally passed both houses on the 8th of May, 1872, notwithstanding the members of the conference committee on behalf of the House, fought against it to the last, through five successive meetings, and notwithstanding it was denounced by Mr Hale, of Maine, as "a most vicious system for the discovery of information;" by Ambler, of Ohio, as a law "to establish a monopoly of spies and informers;" and by other members of the House for similar reasons and because it was acknowledging the incompetency of the existing officers and the failure of the entire revenue system of the country. Mr Butler, "the representative of the advanced immorality of the period," and who is understood to have profited largely by the job, supported the bill, with every influence at his command, stating that certain corporations in different parts of the country were withholding hundreds of thousands of dollars from the Government, and the Banks of the Southern States withheld one half a million of money that belonged to the Government. Just how or why it was necessary to have this special agent to recover these sums when the information in regard to them was already in possession of the revenue officers and when besides the summary methods of enforcing payment which are provided by the revenue laws themselves the whole judicial machinery of the Government, with its Marshals, its Commissioners, its District Attorneys, in every locality could be invoked without let, hindrance or limit, did not appear to a majority of the House, but many voted for the bill with undisguised suspicion that there was fraud in it, rather than kill the appropriations.

Under this act Secretary Boutwell contracted with John D Sanborn, of Boston, a particular friend of Mr Butler, to collect all moneys overdue, for a compensation of fifty per cent of the moneys so collected. He then issued instructions to the regular collectors of revenue not to receive moneys collectable by Sanborn. By this means tens of thousands of dollars were turned over to Sanborn to collect, which the Government would have received in the regular course of business. The Government paid 50 per cent for collecting moneys that would have collected themselves without a dollar's cost. The Revenue officers were all directed by Secretary Boutwell and his successor, the present Secretary of the Treasury to "assist Sanborn with their official records," to find out where moneys were due. The law said he was to assist them, and its manifest spirit—or at least what all supposed to be its spirit who were parties to the fraud—was that the persons to be employed by the Secretary should discover—uncover—moneys covered up by persons and corporations so the Government might obtain its revenues. Where the facts were of record there could be no earthly use for this agency except to filch money out of the Treasury. Nevertheless the contract and the Secretary's instructions to Collectors reversed the order of things and set Sanborn to doing what the law required the regular officers to do, for which he got half the revenue collected. A clearer case of swindling has never come to light in connection with the revenue system of the United States. Sanborn and his pals have, in the two years of his operations amassed immense fortunes and nearly every dollar of them has been taken from the Government without any consideration, [illegible] better days, would be a process which [illegible] called by no less harsh name than theft.

A COLLAPSE

Intelligence comes over the wires that President Gonzalez, of San Domingo, has formally abrogated the cedure [illegible] Bay and its surroundings to the company of Americans who [illegible] of the company [illegible] of this action [illegible] the terms of their contract. Thus ends an enterprise that promised great things. Few people we apprehend ever expected anything of importance to come of the project unless possibly it might be the means of involving the United States and the Dominican Republic in such a difficulty as would furnish a pretext for the former to seize the franchises ceded to the American company. When the scheme was first announced many thought something of this kind was the real object of it, and the request of the company, communicated by the President to Congress last December, to have a protectorate established over their colony, would seem to furnish corroborative evidence of such intention. It appears probable that knowing the President's oft expressed opinion in favor of the purchase of Samana Bay by the Government these speculators hoped through this private purchase or lease, and by planting an American colony there to bring about such complications as would enable them with the favor of the President to turn the purchase over to the Government in some form. But the President's policy on this subject having been overruled by the Senate and by the country at large, after ample discussion and much consideration he was not found so ready an instrument in the hands of the speculators as they anticipated he would be. They carried out their part of the programme admirably, that is they took possession of the ceded territory and established their colony, but the Government was not to be used as they had hoped. When they asked for a protectorate the President simply told Congress they had made such a request and there let the matter rest. And Congress in its turn treated the subject even more cavalierly, never so much as referring to it afterward. And now comes the last act in the drama, which is the collapse of the entire enterprise.

CUT AND DRIED

The Republican State Convention will meet to day at Salem to ratify what has been determined upon by the ring here. For the last two or three days those members from the interior who are considered safest by the ring, have been constantly running to and fro between their respective homes and Portland to get posted in their several parts. The rehearsals have been held every evening this week, and it is understood that those who are on the inside are thoroughly prepared for the role assigned to them in the Convention. Those Republicans who expect to have any real voice in the nominations to be made in the Convention and who are not themselves in the ring, will find themselves deceived. The whole programme is cut and dried, and though the wires may be so pulled as to give the proceedings an appearance of fairness the play will go on in strict conformity to the bill. The main question now is, whether the manipulators will be able to manage the Convention with sufficient skill to keep the honest members from discovering the trick till after the election. We shall see what we shall see.

Certain emissaries of the Custom House ring in order to injure the OREGONIAN among the people of the State are circulating a story up the valley to the effect that a compromise has been made between it and the ring, and that the OREGONIAN will not support the Independent ticket. This report is utterly and absolutely false in letter and spirit. We have refused to consider any proposition looking to such alliance. The OREGONIAN has no candidate for any office and asks nothing at the hands of any Convention. It expects to see a good ticket nominated by the Independents, a ticket that an honest man can support, and it expects to aid in the election of that ticket without asking any questions as to the opinions of the candidates on the resolutions of '98 or the doctrine of nullification. We announced nearly two years ago that we had entered the lists for the people, and that we intended to keep up the fight till the people were victorious. The victory is coming sooner than we dared hope it would and we are glad to have had some humble part in hastening it. The work is not completed however, and until it is, the OREGONIAN will never look back. On this line if it takes all summer.

The Bulletin has volunteered its kind offices to name a ticket for the Independents. We beg leave to inform the ring paper that the Independents are independent and do not propose to call in Mr Holladay or any of his servants to assist in making up their ticket. The farmers of Oregon have intelligence enough to take care of themselves, as the ring will see to its sorrow on the first Monday of June. And while on the subject of tickets we take the liberty to suggest one for the ring Convention. We name T I Cornelius for Governor; for Congressman J I Caples (Cage-Baker alternate); for Secretary of State Odell, (the Beverly Terrier alternate); for State Treasurer T McPaddison; [illegible] and so forth. We would make especial mention of Judgeship of the Fourth Judicial District. No more suitable person could be named especially for the use of Mr Holladay and some others whom we may have occasion hereafter to specify than the present incumbent. This is the ticket named by Mr Holladay himself last fall but it has been deemed necessary to revise it since owing to some peculiar circumstance.

Umatilla county, the home of Mr [illegible], does not take his nomination as a very great compliment. The people of that county are enthusiastic for the Independent movement. They have chosen as delegates to the Independent State Convention men who represent the material and industrial interests of the county and they say the county is good for 400 majority for the Independent ticket.

The dispatches state that Senator Hipple has presented to the Senate a petition signed by between eleven and twelve hundred citizens of Oregon and Washington Territory praying Congress to open the navigation of the Columbia river to the commerce of the world. That would certainly be a good opening.

THE GRAN[illegible]ESS

In [illegible] Mr Phelps of New Jersey [illegible] representatives the other day spoke derisive[ly] of the untutored eloquence of Cannon, an Illinois member who had argued in homely language in behalf of cheap transportation but forcibly. Cannon is a farmer and a Granger. [illegible] is a director of trust companies and of banks, of railroad and express companies [illegible] passed it.

Mr Cobb of Kansas replied to Phelps. From his name and his speech we infer that Cobb is a Granger—one of those Cobbs [illegible] than which Mr Butler cannot carry in his pocket. He is a sharp witted fellow at all events and he draws the railway apologist over the coals after this lively fashion:

But Mr Speaker let me say that the man who sits in his satin slippers in [illegible] chairs in Washington, Boston or New York, heedless of the muttering thunders of those distant prairies is mistaken if he supposes the sound is not the sure precursor of the coming storm. Those grangers, let me tell the gentleman, mean business. They are scattered all over the valleys and hillsides of the Mississippi. They are the movable force of twenty million people. Against their cry for fair play and justice it is foolish and unwise for you to array the Philadelphia or any other platform. They will have justice inside the Republican party if they can; outside of it if they must. They have determined that the winter's fire which warms their wives and babes shall be fed by other fuel than corn hereafter. As their own strong arms and brave hearts carried the flag of their country in the face of the bravest of foes to the gulf and left the waters of their great river unvexed from its source to the sea, so they mean that in like manner their commerce shall go out unvexed by sand bars and obstructions. They mean that the public domain shall be carved into free homes for freemen. They mean to give the railroads exactly what is nominated in the bonds which invest them with empires of public land; they do not mean to give them more. They want money in exchange for their products. They want a chance to live with you. They want the blessings of the Government they helped to save to fall equally upon all. I want them to have it; the gentleman is willing they shall have it if it is found in the Philadelphia platform. They ask for bread and he gives them a stone. I like their principles; he does not. I am a Republican in the loftiest sense, believing in progress and reform; if I judge him rightly he is not.

THE INDEPENDENT MOVEMENT IN MISSOURI

In 1860 Missouri gave a Democratic majority of 131,462; in 1870 it gave an Independent majority of 41,917. During these ten years majorities oscillated between the Republican and the Democratic party. We put these two extremes in contrast in order to show by the undeniable logic of figures how swiftly the revolution of political sentiment has been accomplished in a State that was overwhelmingly partisan until the thinking and taxpaying masses discovered that neither party could be trusted with an enormous majority.

The Republican managers in Missouri have accepted the situation and decided to merge their organization into the Independent party, as will appear from the following dispatch dated St Louis March 20th:

The resolution passed at the Republican caucus at the State Capitol Thursday night to adopt the passive policy in the coming campaign in Missouri and not nominate a Republican ticket appears to meet almost universal indorsement from the leading Republicans here. It can be set down as settled that the field will be left to the Bourbon Democracy on one hand and the Independent Democrats, Grangers and Reformers on the other. The Democratic administration of the last two years has disgusted the people.

The Bulletin says that with hard work and plenty of blowing the ring ticket may succeed yet. When a partisan paper and especially such a one as the Bulletin gets down to the point where the most encouraging word it can say is that if all things work favorably its candidates may succeed, set it down for a hopeless case. That is just equivalent to saying "we have the ghost of a chance of success but we will go through the motions anyhow." The Bulletin is acting rationally for once when it concludes there is no show for its crowd this time.

The Boston correspondent of the Sacramento Union says Senator Schurz has accepted the invitation of Mayor Cobb to deliver a eulogy on Sumner in that city. The date of delivery has not yet been fixed.

Grant county sends a full delegation mostly of farmers to the Independent State Convention.

FIRE LAST EVENING.—At [illegible] of fire w[illegible] [illegible] evening at [illegible] o'clock to wh[illegible] the Department responded with their [illegible] tomed alacrity. It was very soon discover[illegible] that the rear portion of the Soda Wat[illegible] Factory of M[illegible] Walker on Fro[illegible] street [illegible] was on fir[illegible] All possible speed was used in gett[illegible] [illegible] able [illegible] building which was in [illegible] wood [illegible] of Fou[illegible] [illegible] afford[illegible] struction [illegible] the progress of the [illegible] the fire was extinguished. Within a limit[illegible] time [illegible] the engine companies effective service against [illegible] and [illegible] fifteen minutes play [illegible] [illegible] every vestige of the fire when the c[illegible] [illegible] originated [illegible] defective flue or a spa[illegible] [illegible] from [illegible] of the building [illegible] exact origin [illegible] determine [illegible] exceed $[illegible]

NARR[illegible]—On Monday evening abo[illegible] half past [illegible] o'clock the dwelling house occup[illegible] by Mr T [illegible] Himes at the corner of Fi[illegible] and W[illegible] streets narrowly escaped [illegible] struction by fire. A quantity of dry wo[illegible] piled in the basement was discovered [illegible] fire and burning brightly. Mr Holmes an[illegible] family were absent at the time the fire was di[illegible] covered and on returning home shortly af[illegible] found the destroyer was extinguished and th[illegible] danger all passed. Near where the flames we[illegible] fiercely burning was stored a quantity of pit[illegible] wood, oil and other inflammable materia[illegible] which, if the fire had reached, would have r[illegible] sulted in a destructive conflagration. M[illegible] Holmes is at a loss to determine ho[illegible] the fire was communicated to the wood as n[illegible] fire is used in that portion of the buildin[illegible] Appearances would indicate that it was p[illegible] posely set on fire. Time[illegible] alarm was given and Mr Julius Goldsmit[illegible] and other gentlemen by their gallan[illegible] efforts put out the fire.

CITY TAXES.—For some days past a petitio[illegible] has been in circulation among the taxpaye[illegible] of the city asking the Common Council to ex[illegible] tend the time—15th inst—after which taxe[illegible] should be declared delinquent [illegible] period of thirty days. We are advised as to th[illegible] number of signatures obtained at presen[illegible] writing. Taxpayers who procrastinate th[illegible] payment of their taxes in anticipation tha[illegible] the time will be extended and [illegible] th[illegible] own [illegible] is extremely doubtful wh[illegible] course the Council will pursue with referenc[illegible] to the petition. Council will [illegible] its nex[illegible] regular meeting on the evening of the 15t[illegible] inst and it is questionable whether that bod[illegible] could then extend the time as all the date [illegible] which the taxes are to be declared delinquent[illegible]

MORE IMPROVEMENTS.—Arrangements w[illegible] understand have been effected between M[illegible] Frank Dekum and Messrs [illegible] Bros & Co[illegible] for the construction of [illegible] leasing o[illegible] a large brick building [illegible] piece of lan[illegible] owned by Mr Dekum [illegible] on North [illegible] Front street [illegible] $100 the [illegible] will be three stories [illegible] Messrs Burton & W[illegible] architects [illegible] It is the intention to commence work on th[illegible] proposed structure in a few days. When [illegible] finished this entire building will be occupie[illegible] by Messrs Jacobs Bros & Co.

SUDDEN DISAPPEARANCE.—The evening pape[illegible] says Mr Garrison of East Portland whose [illegible] mysterious disappearance we mentioned yes[illegible] terday has not yet been heard of, though hi[illegible] wife has done all in her power to find him[illegible] She fully believes that in a fit of despondenc[illegible] he has made away with himself as he had [illegible] been out of work for some time and has bee[illegible] very low spirited in consequence. It is to b[illegible] hoped that the lady's fears upon this subjec[illegible] may prove groundless.

BROKEN LIMB.—A man named Henry Jack[illegible] son at work at a logging camp down the [illegible] Columbia, had the misfortune to break his le[illegible] leg above the ankle, while engaged in hauling [illegible] logs to the river bank. He was brought up to [illegible] this city where his friends reside and having [illegible] received medical attendance he is now doing [illegible] well.

CITY.

FIRE LAST EVENING.—An alarm of fire was struck last evening at 9.30 o clock, to which the Department responded with their accustomed alacrity It was very soon discovered that the rear portion of the Soda Water Factory of Mr R J Walker on Front street near the corner of Ash was on fire All possible speed was used in getting the engines at the scene but before that could be accomplished the fire had gained considerable headway and was burning fiercely The building which was on fire is a low two story wooden structure standing on the levee side of Front street and adjoins the southern wall of Capt Ankeny's large brick building. This structure is built upon piling and affords superior advantages for the rapid progress of the flames Streams of water were soon directed against the destroyer and in a very short time the fire was extinguished Within a limit of time which appears almost incredible every engine company of the city was at the scene and rendering effective service against the common enemy Fifteen minutes play destroyed every vestige of the fire when the engines were ordered home How the fire originated is a matter of conjecture it not being known whether a defective flue or a spark from one of the buildings adjoining caused the conflagration It originated in the rear of the building and in the second story The exact amount of damage sustained can not be determined at present writing but it cannot exceed $200

NARROW ESCAPE.—On Monday evening about half-past 7 o clock the dwelling house occupied by Mr E Z Holmes at the corner of Eighth and Washington streets narrowly escaped destruction by fire A quantity of dry wood piled up in the basement was discovered on fire and burning brightly Mr Holmes and family were absent at the time the fire was discovered and on returning home shortly after found the destroyer was extinguished and the danger all passed Near where the flames were fiercely burning was stored a quantity of pitch wood, oil and other inflammable materials which, if the fire had reached would have resulted in a destructive conflagration Mr Holmes is utterly at a loss to determine how the fire was communicated to the wood as no fire is used in that portion of the building Appearances would indicate that it was purposely and maliciously set on fire Timely alarm was given and Mr Julius Goldsmith and another young gentleman by their gallant efforts put out the fire

CITY TAXES.—For some days past a petition has been in circulation among the taxpayers of the city asking the Common Council to extend the time—15th inst—after which taxes should be declared delinquent, for the period of thirty days We are unadvised as to the number of signatures obtained at present writing. Taxpayers who procrastinate the payment of their taxes in anticipation that the time will be extended, must do so at their own risk it is extremely doubtful what course the Council will pursue with reference to the petition Council will hold its next regular meeting on the evening of the 15th inst, and it is questionable whether that body could then extend the time as it is the date on which the taxes are to be declared delinquent

MORE IMPROVEMENTS.—Arrangements we understand have been effected between Mr Frank Dekum and Messrs Jacobs Bros & Co for the construction and subsequent leasing of a large brick building This structure will be erected by Mr Dekum on a piece of land owned by him which is situated on North Front street—west side—near A The building will be three stories in height, 37x100 feet Messrs Burton & Williams are the architects It is the intention to commence work on the proposed structure in a few days When finished, this entire building will be occupied by Messrs Jacobs Bros. & Co

SUDDEN DISAPPEARANCE.—The evening paper says Mr Garrison of East Portland whose mysterious disappearance we mentioned yesterday, has not yet been heard of, although his wife has done all in her power to find him She fully believes that in a fit of despondency he has made away with himself, as he had been out of work for some time, and has been very low-spirited in consequence It is to be hoped that the lady's fears upon the subject may prove groundless

BROKEN LIMB.—A man named Henry Jackson at work at a logging camp down the Columbia had the misfortune to break his left leg above the ankle while engaged in hauling logs to the river bank He was brought up to this city where his family resides and having received medical attendance he is now doing well

FIFTEEN LADIES ARRESTED YESTERDAY MORNING AND LODGED IN JAIL BY THE POLICE FOR SINGING AND PRAYING ON THE SIDEWALK—DISCHARGED ON DEMURRER—GREAT EXCITEMENT FELT OVER THE AFFAIR

About 10 30 o clock yesterday morning fifteen ladies belonging to the Union Temperance League appeared before the saloon of Mr Moffett and forthwith began to sing and pray as they had frequently done before. Scarcely had the ladies halted on the sidewalk before an immense crowd collected about them Hundreds caught the spirit of excitement and came pouring in from all directions Three minutes from the time the ladies first made their appearance at least one thousand persons had collected on the sidewalk and street Mr Moffett the proprietor soon made his appearance at the door of the saloon and observing the tremendous jam of people and the prevailing degree of excitement began to blow his whistle for the policemen There were several officers among the crowd who pressed their way toward the ladies to request them to desist Just at this juncture Chief Lappeus made his appearance and perceiving the crowd and the prospects of a disturbance made his way through the jam to the door of the saloon Here he was accosted by the proprietor who demanded in a loud voice that the women be dispersed He said he was a tax payer and was justly entitled to the protection of the law Only that morning he had paid the sum of $100 as a license to sell liquor and he had a perfect right to carry on his business and did not desire to be annoyed and harassed by their frequent and persistent visits As a citizen entitled to the protection of the law he demanded that the police cause the ladies to retire from the sidewalk in front of his place of business, and to disperse the crowd at once

Chief Lappeus then approached the ladies and asked them to withdraw immediately He said their presence was not desirable at that time nor place that it was a source of great annoyance to the proprietor if they persisted a serious disturbance was imminent; an immense crowd had collected about them as they well knew and if they desired to avoid serious trouble—perhaps bloodshed—he asked them he even implored of them to withdraw at once Several of the ladies responded by saying that they had their duty to perform in the matter it was God's cause in which they were engaged they had the consciousness of being right and they could not disobey their plain convictions of duty in short positively declined to leave When still further urged by Lappeus to retire the ladies maintained that they had a right to occupy the sidewalk and for that as well as other reasons declined to obey the orders of the officer Finding all persuasion and remonstrances futile Lappeus then told them that if they still persisted in their obstinate course he should be compelled as an officer of the law to perform a very unpleasant and disagreeable duty by placing them all under arrest To this the ladies signified a perfect willingness to accompany the officer to the jail If the penalty of disobedience to the wishes of the officer was imprisonment then they gladly accepted the situation as they preferred to be arrested rather than swerve an inch from the straight path of duty Such being their expressed determination the Chief told them he should arrest them for disorderly conduct and for creating a disturbance on the streets Without a word or show of resistance the ladies followed the officer down First street An immense crowd followed

Arriving at the corner of Alder and First streets Lappeus halted and addressing the ladies again asked them to quietly go home as he did not desire to be forced to take them to jail He promised to release them at once if they would promise to disperse and not appear again on the streets that day But they would not make any promises reiterating that they had a duty to discharge and they intended to perform it regardless of consequences While they were speaking and the Chief was urging them to disperse several started up street evidently with the intention of returning to Moffett's saloon to renew devotional exercises Perceiving that all persuasions were of no avail, Lappeus told them they would have to proceed to jail Unhesitatingly the ladies to the number of 15, started for jail headed by Chief Lappeus and closely followed by several hundred persons

News of the arrest was communicated with the speed of wild fire and crowds of persons were seen pressing their way towards the city jail from all directions so that by the time the ladies arrived over 500 were assembled along the street and sidewalk in front of the building Arriving at the foot of the stairs leading up into the Court room the ladies filed up with a slow and unfaltering tread When within a few yards from the foot of the stairs a religious hymn was started by one of the ladies and heartily joined in by the entire delegation At the request of Lappeus the ladies marched into the Court room and seated themselves A grand rush was made by the crowd to gain admittance to the building but the design was promptly thwarted by the doors being closed locked, and an officer stationed in front The crowd was then requested to disperse but they did not obey the order and remained about the building several hours awaiting the result of the novel proceeding

The following are the names of the ladies placed under arrest Mrs Rachel Clark Mrs H V Stitzel Mrs Wm Bond Mrs Catharine Sparks Mrs L A Mitchell Miss Jennie Humphreys Mrs Helen Sparrow Mrs I C [illegible]all Mrs J [illegible]atter Mrs Jane Pierpont Mrs Laura Turner, Miss Mary H Sunderland Mrs I B Fletcher, Mrs M Quackenbush Mrs Mary A Mitchell

For several hours after being arrested these ladies continued to sing and pray as though nothing whatever had occurred The husbands brothers and fathers of many of these ladies hearing of the arrest presented themselves at the jail in an excited state of mind and offered to go bail but the ladies without an exception declined to accept such service Chief Lappeus by this time becoming pretty well convinced that he had caught a large elephant offered to allow the ladies to depart on their own recognizance only asking that they would make an appearance this morning and meantime refrain from visiting the saloons But they firmly declined to accept freedom on such conditions

Judge Denny at first concluded to postpone the consideration of the question until this morning as Court had adjourned previous to the arrest But as so much excitement had been created over the matter so much interest felt in the result of the test case and the building was fairly besieged by eager crowds of friends sympathizers and those who felt no immediate concern in the affair or were disposed to regard the arrest with scorn and ler's on [illegible] was determined to proceed to the disposal of the question at once City Attorney Mulkey was hunted up and the Court called to order The defendants were then arraigned on the charge for which they were arrested

The charge was for willfully and unlawfully conducting themselves in a disorderly manner by singing and praying on the sidewalk on First street whereby the peace and quiet of the city was disturbed

Mr C W Parrish appeared for the defendants He filed a general demurrer [illegible] the ground that singing and praying was a devotional exercise and that every person was at liberty under the Constitution of the United States to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience and that the complaint upon its face alleged no statement of facts that [illegible] amount to disorderly conduct

The Court promptly sustained the demurrer and discharged the defendants As the ladies [illegible] out of the building each lady shook the hand of Chief Lappeus [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

FASHIONS

AN ATTEMPT MADE TO SUPPRESS THE FRIVOLITIES OF FEMALE COSTUME

Reform at present appears to be the watchword of the day A late number of the S F Call says that a lady attired in a sensible easy fitting brown dress called upon them yesterday and left the following communication

WHEREAS, The most of American women are ruining themselves, their children and through them future generations by their style of dress therefore

Resolved, That a reform in this direction must go hand in hand with that of temperance ere any lasting effect can be produced to stay the great evil by showing to the world that the women are in earnest by first reforming their own great sin of intemperance in dress

[illegible] company of ladies have commenced the agitation of this subject by calling around them a little band of all who are interested in this great work in the inaugurating of weekly meetings for the exchange of opinions and planning future operations until the Fourth of July when the faithful will declare their independence from the bonds of that tyrant Fashion in that they shall dress according to their highest sense of propriety beauty and use

A meeting is appointed for all who are interested in the subject of dress reform for woman to meet at Anthony's Hall 117 Bush street opposite the California Theater on Monday afternoon April 6th Ladies to meet at two o clock precisely and at three o clock gentlemen are invited to join in our deliberations who are ready to sustain the band of earnest women in the adoption of any style of dress their taste and good judgment may decide to be the best

It may be asked and not with impropriety either, Why should not this reform in fashion be inaugurated in Portland as well as that of temperance and politics This movement should it be commenced here would no doubt create a great flutter in the feminine heart

ALIVE AND KICKING.

There are few printers in the State who do not know James Sheppard or Shep as he was familiarly known among the craft who was at one time foreman of the Herald and Statesman In February the dispatches gave information that a Mr James Sheppard was shot and killed at Stony Creek in California Many of his friends in this State were at the time, and still are, of the impression that it was the veritable Shep who had unceremoniously passed in his checks But such is not the case Mr Sheppard under date of Chico March 30th writes as follows concerning his reported demise He says Allow me to say that the James Sheppard who was shot at Stony creek (and who I understand has since died) is not your humble servant who pens these lines as his autograph affixed to the bottom of this will amply testify, but an individual of a similar name merely I never was at Stony creek in my life and never expect to be It may be that the grim old skeleton intended to have struck me but made a mistake and brought down the other fellow. However as I'm alive and kicking what's the odds? Talking about kicking' reminds me that I don't kick very lustily just now having been unwell nearly all winter and that although the present report of my demise may be untrue this time the next one may be true in fact Please tell my friends that I am worth a couple or so of dead men yet and thank them in my name for their kindly interest Since the Herald became defunct I have not the remotest idea where the boys have scattered to and do not know if any of them are with you at Salem

INTERESTING TO INVALID LADIES

HARDENFIELD, Columbia Co N Y, July 9 187[illegible]

R V PIERCE M D

Dear Sir—Your favor is just received I intended to have written to you several weeks since concerning the improvement in my health which is now very apparent. I have used one bottle of Favorite Prescription with the best results although I will admit I was somewhat discouraged after its use (for a short time only) I took it under disadvantageous circumstances—having the supervision of the house and during the house cleaning I was obliged through the incompetency of help to do more than I ought and of course suffered dreadfully. I lifted when I ought not to have raised my hand and did all I could to bring order out of chaos—but upon laying aside all cares and continuing the remedy I find that after using less than one bottle to be so much benefited that I have discontinued the use without a return of the symptoms of which I wrote you I have suffered terribly and all added to my distress was the consciousness [illegible] of procuring relief from ordinary sources at times it seemed almost impossible to stand so great was the distress All of the [illegible] pains have disappeared they were so bad at times I could hardly walk without some external pressure They seem to have left me like magic suddenly and I have had no return all other symptoms have been removed The severe weakness and faintness have disappeared and I can go up stairs with comparative ease now I would have informed you ere this of my improvement, for I appreciated it but I was fearful it was only transient benefit I was receiving, but I think sufficient time has elapsed to consider the benefit and results permanent Accept of my best wishes for your future success and your kindness in advising me

Yours truly Mrs NETTIE SNYDER

A ROMANTIC WEDDING

THE GIRL WHO WOULD NOT TAKE A DARE

(Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial)

MEMPHIS, March 7, 1874

Oh do not say that love's a dream
A wild obscure delusion
Or think the soul inspiring theme
Creates alone confusion
All the gifts the world can give
And all its joys and blessings
Will never requite you while you live
Without love's sweet caressing

The above lines are apropos to a marriage celebrated in this city last Monday evening. That the days of chivalry are not over none who are acquainted with the circumstances of the marriage referred to can doubt. In Tuesday's papers appeared the following

MARRIED—MARTIN—MARTIN—At St Mary's Church in this city Monday March 18 by Rev Geo C Harris Mr G Fred Martin of this city and Miss Sallie Belle Martin of Tuscaloosa Alabama

Very plain very proper and very fortunate was what all who saw the notice and were acquainted with the parties thought of the affair. Among the more intimate friends of the happy couple considerable surprise was manifested as it was well known that the two had never met but a few times, save in the street

USHERING IN A ROMANCE

The circumstances connected with this really romantic affair are given below. Last Monday afternoon Mr Jo Stone a well known young man, met Miss Sallie Belle Martin and a lady friend on Main street, proposed to walk to the bluffs, from which point a fine view can be had of the mighty river which laves their base and the Arkansas shore already putting on the beautiful, fresh garb of spring. It was a lovely afternoon and the trio spent a half hour on the bluffs watching the hundreds of steamboat laborers at their feet all busy loading and unloading the floating palaces and commenting on the varied scenes in the panorama stretched before them. Turning back and coming down Madison street, a gentleman acquaintance was met who, after a few minutes' chat, walked away with the lady friend referred to, leaving Mr Stone and our heroine together. Walking down Main street, Mr Stone purchased a pocketful of nuts with which he and Miss Martin, going into Court Square, gave the frolicsome squirrels a feast.

THE OLD SUBJECT

Tiring of that, the two walked up Second street, laughing and chatting until opposite the Calvary Church, when, the conversation chancing to be on things matrimonial, Mr Stone, in a tone of raillery, said

"Miss Sallie, I dare you to go across the street and get married!"

The banter was promptly accepted in the same spirit, and in high glee the two crossed the street and entered the church, in which services were being held at the time. Not seeing any manifestation of faltering on the lady's part, Mr Stone whispered

"I give up, you have beaten me, let us go," and the two retraced their steps to Court Square, where they met the couple previously referred to. They had a package of candy, and Mr Stone asked for some, which they jokingly refused.

"Very well, Miss Sallie, we will go and buy a package for ourselves."

They accordingly went to Specht's on Madison street, and bought the confections. Coming out, they saw a milk wagon standing in the alley alongside of the store

"Is not that Mr Martin's wagon?" asked Miss Martin

"Yes, I believe it is," responded Mr Stone

"I would like to see him," said Miss Sallie, "for I thought him such a nice gentleman the other night at a party, and would like to see him again."

Retracing their steps they went into the store and inquired after Mr Martin

A YOUNG MAN WHO WOULDN'T TAKE A DARE

Being told that he was somewhere near, they again went into the street, and met the gentleman sought on the sidewalk. He is our hero. A few minutes of social conversation ensued, when Mr Stone said

"Fred, Miss Sallie here has just backed me out on a proposition to get married."

"Well," replied Mr Martin, turning to the lady, "you can't back me out!"

"Yes, I can," laughingly responded Miss Martin, and then for two or three minutes the parties indulged in laughter and repartee, finally closing with the proposal of Mr Stone to go off and get a license

PROCURING MARRIAGE LICENSE

This was agreed to by all parties, and the trio set off for the office of the County Clerk, where the coveted document was to be had. Arriving there they fortunately met Mr John Overton, Jr, who acquiesced in the proposal to go on the marriage bond, and in ten minutes the license was signed, sealed and delivered by the smiling clerk, Mr James Reilly. Coming out, the question was put by Mr Martin.

"Where will we go to get married?"

In that obliging manner which renders him such a favorite, Mr Stone proposed the nearest 'Squire (Hall). The official was not in

HUNTING A PREACHER

Nothing daunted, Mr Martin proposed to walk up street. In passing along Second street they took a carriage, and drove out to St Mary's on Poplar street as the most convenient place for the ceremony. The rector, Rev George C Harris, was not in, and the trio, still on matrimony bent, despite the cruel fate which seemed opposed, started back down town. When near Fourth street Mr Martin espied Mr Harris on the street, and at once accosted him, asking his services. With a profound bow the obliging rector expressed himself willing and ready, and the quartet, taking a street car, again proceeded to St Mary's being joined en route by two young ladies, friends of all parties, who happened along at the time. Arriving at the church, it being dark by this time, the lights were turned on, and the rather strange looking bridal party—Mr Martin being in his everyday working clothes—proceeded at once to the chancel, where, in his clerical robes, awaited the reverend gentleman who was soon to unite them forever

THIS TWAIN SHALL BE ONE

Neither the lady or Mr Martin by this time very sober in the expression of their countenances, faltered for a moment, but joining hands stood before the man of God. When the question was asked Mr Martin—

"Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?" he in a low, firm tone answered "I will." To the question

"Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" &c Miss Martin promptly responded, "I will." And to the question

"Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" Mr Stone stepped forward as next friend and taking the lady's hand gave it to the minister

FINDING A WEDDING RING

When that part of the ceremony was reached where after plighting their troth the ring is given it was found that neither of the parties had the necessary golden circlet. One of the young ladies mentioned noticing the stop, slipped a ring off her finger and handed it to the parties and in a few moments the minister said

"I pronounce that they are man and wife and in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, Amen," and the romance was completed.

A LITTLE SURPRISE AND EXPLANATION

The bridal couple after congratulations proceeded to the house of the relation where Mrs Martin nee Miss Martin had been stopping. It required a little time to explain matters after which wine and cake were brought in and in company with a few friends all went merry as the traditional marriage bell. That this marriage so romantically brought about may prove one of real and lasting love and that the journey through life may always be as happy and free from obstructions as their first lesson is the wish of all their many friends, none of whom know but to respect and love

THE NEWLY WEDDED

The bride is an acknowledged belle of Tuscaloosa Alabama, frequently visiting [illegible] who has been spending the winter in this city where her beauty and accomplishments have turned the heads of scores of the gallants young and old. She is of one of the best Alabama families her father prior to his death being a leading and well known merchant

The groom is a young man, a descendant of one of the best known and highly respected families of Middle Tennessee. Before the war his father was a gentleman of affluence but at its close like thousands of others found himself penniless. Our hero like many young men in similar circumstances was too proud to be supported by others, but unlike many others he was not too proud to go to work like a true man and make an honest living for himself. Coming to this city he purchased a dairy, and at once went to work, not trusting others to do his business. As a natural consequence he has, by close application not only secured a comfortable competence but has won the respect and esteem of all

The money market presents no important change. Trade is assuming a more favorable aspect and the dullness observed a few days ago is apparently though not rapidly giving place to more activity and transactions for the current week will aggregate considerable over those of last. From nearly all directions come the notes of preparation for the largest and perhaps the soundest season's business the country has known for some years. All dealers both in the city and country have proceeded with great caution and all are believed to be in unusually good condition for the business campaign of the spring and summer. True some went down in the stormy days of 187[illegible] but in most cases old accounts have been squared or closed satisfactorily. Stocks have been worked down to a minimum and much of the embarrassing debris of former years has been cleared away. The season for collections has been fairly favorable and less money in proportion to the sales of last season is now probably due to the merchants for any prior season for years. In view of the fair prospects of trade stocks are large and varied, and better assortments greet buyers than usual

It is still the custom with many large houses to send out agents who are generally called drummers on this coast though many of the most extensive firms East have abandoned the practice. It is claimed that they will make prices low, and send out occasional samples and make the buyer feel the necessity of coming to the market himself and canvassing the trade. On this subject one of our exchanges says. The present condition of trade in the interior shows too plainly the evils of buying wholly from road samples. Many who have been wholly dependent on drummers for goods are now asking for extensions and in too many cases, have in stock goods difficult to move. The salesman drumming through the country is often too apt to consider the customer and not his employer. Anxiety to send home good full orders often induces him to neglect some important fact that might curtail his patron's credit because it would reduce the sum total of sales and might displease the customer. Thus the customer gets overloaded and at settling day falls back on the selling firm for special favors

Home Produce Market.

Our quotations for Grain and Feed under this head always include sacks unless otherwise stated. The prices at which sacks are reckoned in this market are as follows. For Wheat 8 cents ⅌ bushel. Oats 5 cents ⅌ bushel. Barley 10 cents ⅌ 100 lbs. Feed $4 50@5 ⅌ ton

WHEAT—There are no indications yet given in our exchanges upon which may be based any very reliable predictions as to prices of the next crop but sufficient information is already at hand to induce a strong belief that the tonnage supply on our coast will be large and that the heavy crops which are now assured will find transportation at rates full as low if not lower than in the past. Transactions at present in this cereal are very light and buyers are not offering over $1 60 though occasional lots may change hands at an advance of 5 cents per cental on these figures

FLOUR—The stocks on hand here are somewhat diminished by recent shipments and lessened receipts several of our State mills having shut down and others running on short time. Prices are firm at our quotations of $6 ⅌ barrel for standard brands $5 50 for outside and good country brands. $5 for common and $4 50 for superfine. The local trade is active

OATS—The receipts from up the valley have fallen off under the dullness prevailing in this market for the past few days and owing to the fact that farmers are too busy with their spring work to market the surplus which is yet held by them. The prediction is now made with confidence that present rates which are 45 cents ⅌ bushel will decline in a few days. The San Francisco market shows a weakening tendency

BARLEY—There is no active call beyond the supply of the local trade which will absorb the surplus in our State. We quote at $1 40@1 45 per cental

FEED—The stocks on hand rather exceed the current demand, and as spring advances large lots are placed with more difficulty at current rates dealers not being willing to run the risks of an anticipated drop in the market. The quotations are weaker but without any decided change

HAY—Wild Hay is very dull sale at $8 ⅌ ton while good timothy is in moderate request at $[illegible]@11

POTATOES—The receipts are falling off and but few large lots now offer in our market. If of best varieties they find ready sale at [illegible] ⅌ bushel inferior [illegible]

ONIONS—Transactions are light and prices firm for good lots $1 75@[illegible] 100 lbs would be paid. Common $1 50@1 60

APPLES—Last season's crop still lasts though many lots coming to hand are quite badly specked. Best varieties command [illegible] ⅌ box in boxes common [illegible]

BACON—There is not much [illegible] the call for shipping being [illegible] the home demand [illegible] quiet. We quote good [illegible] shoulders [illegible] sides the hams 15@16c. Lard is firm at our last quotations

DRIED FRUIT—Still comes forward liberally and our former quotations are well sustained both for Apples in sacks and kegs and plums [illegible]. The former is quotable at [illegible] in kegs [illegible] Plums with pits dull at [illegible] pitless sell more readily at [illegible]@14c

BUTTER—There is nothing new in the market the best being in fair request at [illegible] and common being plenty at prices with the wide range from [illegible]@22c ⅌ lb

CHEESE—The market is scantily supplied with choice Oregon made for which [illegible] is freely offered by jobbers. Best California [illegible] same rate

EGGS—The supply continues ample and quotations are steady at [illegible] ⅌ dozen. Occasionally fresh receipts are placed at an advance

CHICKENS—Receipts are not excessive and prices keep up well. We quote good lots [illegible] ⅌ dozen mixed lots [illegible]

BEEF CATTLE—There is [illegible] among buyers of poor lots offering and [illegible] marked down to the lowest possible figure. For fat young steers the demand is brisk at [illegible] while many of the lots offering sell for [illegible] because [illegible] their inferior condition

MUTTON SHEEP—There are but few arrivals and quotations are nominal at $[illegible] per head for [illegible]

DRESSED HOGS—The season is over and quotations nominal at [illegible]

TALLOW—Some shipments made [illegible] Francisco have been unprofitable and the market is duller. We quote at [illegible]

HIDES—Large receipts [illegible] the rule and we [illegible] the result [illegible] the hard winter in this branch of trade. Prices for undamaged lots are firm at [illegible] for green [illegible] for green salted 14@15c for dry, and [illegible] for cull

WOOL—Eastern and California advices indicate some activity in the market but show no important indications as to probable prices. Our home market is bare of transactions and quotations nominal at 19@24c ⅌ lb for common to best.

A ROMANTIC WEDDING

THE GIRL WHO WOULD NOT TAKE A DARE.

(Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial)

MEMPHIS, March 7, 1874

I do not say that love's a dream
A wild obscure delusion
Or think the soul inspiring theme
Creates alone confusion
All the gifts the world can give
And all its joys and blessings
Will never requite, while you live,
Without love's sweet caressing.

The above lines are apropos to a marriage celebrated in this city last Monday evening. That the days of chivalry are not over none who are acquainted with the circumstances of the marriage referred to can doubt. In Tuesday's papers appeared the following

MARRIED—MARTIN—MARTIN—At St. Mary's Church in this city Monday March 2, 1874, by Rev Geo C Harris Mr G Fred Martin of this city and Miss Sallie Belle Martin of Tuscaloosa Alabama.

Very plain very proper and very fortunate was what all who saw the notice, and were acquainted with the parties, thought of the affair. Among the more intimate friends of the happy couple considerable surprise was manifested, as it was well known that the two had never met but a few times save in the street.

USHERING IN A ROMANCE

The circumstances connected with this really romantic affair are given below. Last Monday afternoon Mr Jo Stone a well known young man, met Miss Sallie Belle Martin and a lady friend on Main street proposed to walk to the bluffs, from which point a fine view can be had of the mighty river which laves their base and the Arkansas shore already putting on the beautiful, fresh garb of spring. It was a lovely afternoon, and the trio spent a half hour on the bluffs watching the hundreds of steamboat laborers at their feet, all busy loading and unloading the floating palaces and commenting on the varied scenes in the panorama stretched before them. Turning back and coming down Madison street, a gentleman acquaintance was met who, after a few minutes' chat, walked away with the lady friend referred to, leaving Mr Stone and our heroine together. Walking down Main street, Mr Stone purchased a pocketful of nuts with which he and Miss Martin going into Court Square, gave the frolicsome squirrels a feast

THE OLD SUBJECT

Tiring of that, the two walked up Second street, laughing and chatting until opposite the Calvary Church when the conversation chancing to be on things matrimonial, Mr Stone, in a tone of raillery, said

"Miss Sallie, I dare you to go across the street and get married"

The banter was promptly accepted in the same spirit, and in high glee the two crossed the street and entered the church in which services were being held at the time. Not seeing any manifestation of faltering on the lady's part, Mr Stone whispered

"I give up, you have beaten me let us go," and the two retraced their steps to Court Square, where they met the couple previously referred to. They had a package of candy, and Mr Stone asked for some, which they jokingly refused

"Very well, Miss Sallie, we will go and buy a package for ourselves"

They accordingly went to Specht's on Madison street, and bought the confections. Coming out they saw a milk wagon standing in the alley alongside of the store

"Is not that Mr Martin's wagon" asked Miss Martin

"Yes, I believe it is," responded Mr Stone

"I would like to see him, said Miss Sallie, 'for I thought him such a nice gentleman the other night at a party, and would like to see him again"

Retracing their steps they went into the store and inquired after Mr Martin

A YOUNG MAN WHO WOULDN'T TAKE A DARE

Being told that he was somewhere near, they again went into the street, and met the gentleman sought on the sidewalk. He is our hero. A few minutes of social conversation ensued, when Mr Stone said

"Fred, Miss Sallie here has just backed me out on a proposition to get married"

"Well," replied Mr Martin, turning to the lady, "you can't back me out"

"Yes, I can," laughingly responded Miss Martin, and then for two or three minutes the parties indulged in laughter and repartee finally closing with the proposal of Mr Stone to go off and get a license

PROCURING MARRIAGE LICENSE

This was agreed to by all parties, and the trio set off for the office of the County Clerk, where the coveted document was to be had. Arriving there they fortunately met Mr John Overton Jr, who acquiesced in the proposal to go on the marriage bond, and in ten minutes the license was signed, sealed and delivered by the smiling clerk Mr James Reilly. Coming out, the question was put by Mr Martin.

"Where will we go to get married?"

In that obliging manner which renders him such a favorite Mr Stone proposed the nearest Squire (Hall). The official was not in

HUNTING A PREACHER

Nothing daunted, Mr Martin proposed to walk up street. In passing along Second street they took a carriage and drove out to St Mary's on Poplar street as the most convenient place for the ceremony. The rector, Rev George C Harris was not in, and the trio, still on matrimony bent, despite the cruel fate which seemed opposed, started back down town. When near Fourth street Mr Martin espied Mr Harris on the street, and at once accosted him, asking his services. With a profound bow the obliging rector expressed himself willing and ready, and the quartet, taking a street car, again proceeded to St Mary's, being joined en route by two young ladies, friends of all parties who happened along at the time. Arriving at the church, it being dark by this time the lights were turned on, and the rather strange looking bridal party—Mr Martin being in his everyday working clothes—proceeded at once to the chancel, where, in his clerical robes, awaited the reverend gentleman who was soon to unite them forever

THIS TWAIN SHALL BE ONE

Neither the lady or Mr Martin by this time very sober in the expression of their countenances, faltered for a moment, but joining hands stood before the man of God. When the question was asked Mr Martin—

"Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?" he, in a low firm tone answered "I will" To the question

"Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband" &c Miss Martin promptly responded, "I will" And to the question

"Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" Mr Stone stepped forward (as next friend) and taking the lady's hand gave it to the minister

FINDING A WEDDING RING

When that part of the ceremony was reached where after plighting their troth the ring is given it was found that neither of the parties had the necessary golden circlet. One of the young ladies mentioned noticing the stop, slipped a ring off her finger and handed it to the parties and in a few moments the minister said "I pronounce that they are man and wife and in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, Amen," and the romance was completed.

A LITTLE SURPRISE AND EXPLANATION

The bridal couple after congratulations proceeded to the house of the relation where Mrs Martin nee Miss Martin had been stopping. It required a little time to explain matters after which wine and cake were brought in and the company with a few friends all went merry as the traditional marriage bell. That this marriage so romantically brought about may prove [illegible] and that the [illegible] of life may always be [illegible] and happy and as free from obstructions as their first lesson is the wish of all their many friends none of whom know but to respect and love.

THE NEWLY WEDDED

The bride is an acknowledged belle of Tuscaloosa Alabama frequently [illegible] [illegible] who [illegible] in this city where her beauty and accomplishments have turned the heads of scores of the gallants young and old. She is one of one of the best Alabama family, her father prior to his death being leading and well known merchant.

The groom is a young man a descendant of one of the best known and highly respected families of Middle Tennessee. Before the war his father was a gentleman of affluence but at its close like thousands of others found himself penniless. Our hero like many young men in similar circumstances was too proud to be supported by others but unlike many others, he was not too proud to go to work like true man and make an honest living for himself. Coming to this city he purchased a dairy and at once went to work not trusting others to do his business. As a natural consequence he has, by close application not only secured a comfortable competence but has won the respect and esteem of all

The money market presents no important change. Trade is assuming a more favorable aspect and the dullness observed a few days ago is apparently though not rapidly giving place to more activity and transactions for the current week will aggregate considerable over those of last. From nearly all directions come the notes of preparation for the largest and perhaps the soundest season's business the country has known for some years. All dealers both in the city and country have proceeded with great caution and all are believed to be in unusually good condition for the business campaign of the spring and summer. True some went down in the stormy days of 1873 but in most cases old accounts have been squared or closed satisfactorily, stocks have been worked down to a minimum and much of the embarrassing debris of former years has been cleared away. The season for collections has been fairly favorable and less money in proportion to the sales of last season is now probably due to the merchants for any prior season for years. In view of the fair prospects of trade stocks are large and varied and better assortments greet buyers than usual

It is still the custom with many large houses to send out agents who are generally called drummers on this coast though many of the most extensive firms East have abandoned the practice. It is claimed that they will make prices low and send out occasional samples and make the buyer feel the necessity of coming to the market himself and canvassing the trade. On this subject one of our exchanges says. The present condition of trade in the interior shows too plainly the evils of buying wholly from road samples. Many who have been wholly dependent on drummers for goods are now asking for extensions and in too many cases have in stock goods difficult to move. The salesman drumming through the country is often too apt to consider the customer and not his employer. Anxiety to send home good full orders often induces him to neglect some important fact that might curtail his patron's credit because it would reduce the sum total of sales and might displease the customer. Thus the customer gets overloaded and at settling day falls back on the selling firm for special favors

Home Produce Market.

Our quotations for Grain and Feed under this head always include sacks unless otherwise stated. The prices at which sacks are reckoned in this market are as follows. For Wheat 5 cents ₱ bushel Oats 5 cents ₱ bushel Barley 10 cents ₱ 100 lbs Feed $2 50@3 ₱ ton

WHEAT—There are no indications yet given in our exchanges upon which may be based any very reliable predictions as to prices of the next crop, but sufficient information is already at hand to induce a strong belief that the tonnage supply on our coast will be large and that the heavy crops which are now assured will find transportation at rates full as low if not lower than in the past. Transactions at present in this cereal are very light and buyers are not offering over $1 60 though occasional lots may change hands at an advance of 5 cents per cental on these figures

FLOUR—The stocks on hand here are somewhat diminished by recent shipments and less [illegible] receipts several of our State mills having shut down and others running on short time. Prices are firm at our quotations of $6 ₱ barrel for standard brands $5 50 for outside and good country brands $5 for common and $4 50 for superfine. The local trade is active

OATS—The receipts from up the valley have fallen off under the dullness prevailing in this market for the past few days and owing to the fact that farmers are too busy with their spring work to market the surplus which is yet held by them. The prediction is now made with confidence that present rates which are 45 cents ₱ bushel will decline in a few days. The San Francisco market shows a weakening tendency

BARLEY—There is no active call beyond the supply of the local trade which will absorb the surplus in our State. We quote at $1 40 a 1 45 per cental

FEED—The stocks on hand rather exceed the current demand and as spring advances large lots are placed with more difficulty at current rates dealers not being willing to run the risks of an anticipated drop in the market. The quotations are weaker but without any decided change

HAY—Wild Hay is very dull sale at $8 ₱ ton while good timothy is in moderate request at $12 @14

POTATOES—The receipts are falling off and but few large lots now offer in our market. [illegible] varieties find ready sale at [illegible] ₱ bushel inferior [illegible]

ONIONS—Transactions are light and prices firm. For good lots $1 75 ₱ 100 lbs would be paid common $1 50@1 60

APPLES—Last season's crop still lasts, though many lots coming to hand are quite badly specked. Best varieties command [illegible] ₱ box in boxes common 50@60c loose

BACON—There is not much doing the call for shipping being dull and the home demand quiet. We quote good lots of shoulders [illegible] sides 11c hams [illegible] Lard is firm at our last quotations

DRIED FRUIT—Still comes forward liberally and our former quotations are well sustained both for Apples in sacks and kegs and pitless Plums. The former is quotable at [illegible] in kegs [illegible] Plums with pits dull at [illegible] pitless sell more readily [illegible] @14c

BUTTER—There is nothing new in the market the best being in fair request at [illegible] ₱ lb rolls of common being plentier at prices with the wide range from 15@22c ₱ lb

CHEESE—The market is amply supplied with choice Oregon made for which [illegible] freely offered by jobbers. Best California about the same rate

EGGS—The supply continues ample and quotations are steady at [illegible] ₱ dozen. Occasionally fresh receipts are placed at an advance

CHICKENS—Receipts are not excessive and prices keep up well. We quote good lots of hens at $4 50 ₱ dozen, mixed lots $[illegible]

BEEF CATTLE—There is much complaint among buyers of poor lots offering [illegible] market down to the lowest possible figure. For first [illegible] steers the demand is brisk at [illegible] while many of the lots offering sell for [illegible] because of their inferior condition

MUTTON SHEEP—There are but few arrivals and quotations are nominal at $4 a 4 50 ₱ head for fair lots

DRESSED HOGS—The season is over and [illegible] nominal at 6@7c ₱ lb

TALLOW—Some shipments made to San Francisco have been unprofitable and the market is duller. We quote at 5c @ [illegible] ₱ lb

HIDES—Large receipts and heavy shipments are the rule and we note the result of the hard winter in this branch of trade. Prices for undamaged hides are firm at 6@6½c for green [illegible] for green salted 14@15c for dry and 11@12c for cull

WOOL—Eastern and California advices indicate some activity in the market but show no important indications as to probable prices. Our home market is bare of transactions and quotations nominal at 19@24c ₱ lb for common to best
